

Call for abstracts!

JBIC European Regional Symposium : « Person - Family - Community Partnership and Sustainable Evidence-Based Healthcare »

16 April 2024, Lausanne, Switzerland

The JBI is a dynamic international collaboration of health professionals and researchers dedicated to promoting and supporting Evidence Based Healthcare (EBHC). The JBI mission aims to synthesize and translate evidence into practice and policies that are effective and sustainable at local, national, and international level. JBI partnership and scholarly work focus on the promotion of Equity, Diversity, and Inclusion (EDI). In addition, JBI Collaboration is recently engaged in working towards achieving the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) adopted by the United Nations, specifically the SDG 3 “Ensure healthy lives and promote well-being for all at all ages”, to maximize the use of available resources and reach a global impact on health outcomes.

Recognizing that research alone cannot have all the answers to understand the context of care, as well as the social systems and the diverse needs of the populations, JBI aims to reinforce partnership with patients, their families, and the community. This collaborative approach ensures that our research and implementation projects are aligned with SDGs, from addressing the right question to understanding and implementing results. This alignment is crucial for maintaining the relevance of our research and implementation projects and overcoming the complexity and the challenges of the continuously changing and evolving healthcare system, thus leading to sustained changes in practice and care.

JBI’s collaborative and patient-centered approach is a driving force for positive change in healthcare. Partnership with patients, their families and the community will strengthen their awareness of EBHC and will ensure that their needs and perspectives are communicated to healthcare professionals. Patients, their families, and the community should be considered active stakeholders, working with healthcare professionals for optimizing health outcomes and maximizing the impact of SDGs.

Consequently, the European JBI 2024 Symposium will focus on the integration of a collaborative approach with patients, families, and the community in the development of EBHC, that is aligned with the SDGs.

The symposium is free and open to all. It will include plenary sessions and parallel sessions with around twelve oral presentations. A poster presentation will also be organized.

Topics

Below are topics for submission:

- Person partnership and sustainable evidence-based healthcare
- Family partnership and sustainable evidence-based healthcare
- Community partnership and sustainable evidence-based healthcare

Presentation types

- Oral presentations (15 minutes)
- Poster presentation

Guidelines for Abstract submission

Participants are invited to submit an abstract in English of no more than 250 words. The submission must provide the following information:

- Details of author(s) (first name, last name, professional status, affiliation, country, e-mail address)
- Communication title
- Design: research / systematic review / systematic review protocol / implementation report
- Preferred type of presentation: oral, poster, or no preference
- Abstract of 250 words maximum: background, objectives, methods, results, conclusions
- (Bibliography of up to 4 references, not mandatory)
- Topic of the communication among those proposed (i.e. Person, Family, or Community Partnership)

Review process

Only abstracts submitted online will be accepted.

Peer reviewers from various JBIC centers will review your abstract submission for acceptance.

Authors will be notified about acceptance and selected presentation. They will receive presentation guidelines.

Timeline

11/01/24 - Open call

08/02/24 – Submission deadline

08/03/24 – Acceptance notification

Application

Please use the following link to submit your abstract: <https://jbisymposium2024.sciencesconf.org/>
(click on the bottom right on login – create account)